

That is the interpretation of the infinite as a sweet continuous flow of heart and mind tracking.

Blood.

The tube maybe is the cord.

The door provides the location of the (skin) membrane that separates the outer from the inner.

In relationship to the needle which is the arbitrator and also the sound.

The umbilical cord functions in relation to a support system as the electric cord here.

The electrical distribution in relation to the system of veins.

Even to enter the door is to puncture the space.

An insoluble event.

Like the introduction of a virus.

The absolute impartiality of the object and its function.

The total partiality of context.

The ongoing experience as the "drone" of experience like a recurring nightmare or dream.

The base of operation.